Product Description

Speed Thermal Transfer Printer For Efficient Label Printing

Product Description:

The Color Barcode Printer is a thermal transfer printer that uses a ribbon to transfer ink onto the label material, producing high-quality, durable, and long-lasting barcodes. It boasts a media width range of 32-118mm, making it one of the most versatile barcode printers on the market. This means that you can print a wide variety of label sizes, from small to large, without compromising on quality.

The Color Barcode Printer is ideal for businesses that require high-quality barcode printing for inventory management, shipping, and product identification. It is also perfect for printing labels for products, packages, and envelopes. The printer's thermal transfer technology ensures that the print quality is crisp and clear, making it easy to read even from a distance.

This barcode printer is designed to work with thermal label types, which are suitable for printing high-quality barcodes. The thermal labels are heat-sensitive and react to the heat generated by the thermal printhead, resulting in a high-quality, durable print that is resistant to fading and smudging. This ensures that your labels remain legible for a long time, even in harsh environments.

The Color Barcode Printer is not just any ordinary printer; it is a thermal transfer printer that is designed to deliver high-quality, accurate, and durable barcodes. It is perfect for businesses that require high-quality barcode printing for inventory management, shipping, and product identification. The printer's thermal transfer technology ensures that the print quality is crisp and clear, making it easy to read even from a distance. With a paper width range of 20mm-82mm and a print speed of 203dpi (8dot/mm), this printer is perfect for both industrial and commercial use.
